- Colleagues

As requested, we crosswalked the State-authored papers we received this week against the our comments.

Edits: Unless otherwise stated, the track changes represent either State's adoption of the text we sent over, or new text added by State. In most documents, new text is a different color and authorship (EPA or State) can be identified by mousing over the text in question.

Comments: Because Andrew and Liz handled the comments slightly differently, State's response comments may look different depending on which document back, but are relatively easy to spot.

Please let me know if you have any problems working through the documents, and I can try to help clarify what has changed.

Thx., R.
